

Jay Abraham's...

“Fixing the Chinks in Your Entrepreneurial Armor” Event Overview

Hello Friend:

Are you constantly driven to distraction at your business?

Does writing emails, texts, and using your mobile phone dominate your time, your day? Are you stuck -- often struggling to focus?

Do you really think multitasking works? Or are you getting further behind -- and more out of control?

Do you get constantly get diverted, derailed from one project to another? Rarely finishing any?

Do you have a list of projects you want to do? Need to do? But never do. Do you worry? And if so, do you worry alone in a vacuum?

At night... in the car... at the office... at social affairs?

Are you always trying to be the hero to both clients and staff?

Always trying to come up with ALL the solutions and answers yourself?

Are you stuck? Overwhelmed? Always doing things without the help of others, never collaborating or cooperating with anyone else -- because you can't -- or simply don't know how?

Do you underachieve your efforts? Do you underperform your activities?

Do you drop the ball or (unknowingly) limit or restrict the results your business achieves or deserves?

Is this eating away at your ambitions? Destroying your senses of accomplishment?

Are you never content?

Would you like to understand, then learn how to masterfully manage and maintain maximum focus -- optimize achievements, and have a grounded balance between work and personal life?

Would you like to harness the enormous power of your mind, doubling, re-doubling, or perhaps even re-doubling again your performance, achievements, profits, and fulfillment?

What about the profound power of human connection... wouldn't you like to better master that?

Or, how about harnessing the power of emotions to maximum ethical advantage? Or, the power of structured thinking? (Few people I meet even grasp its magnitude).

What would it be like if you were distracted no more? Laser-focused. Monumentally effective, powerfully impactful, and joyously happy?

My good friend, Dr. Edward (Ned) Hallowell is recognized – worldwide, as THE foremost expert on entrepreneurial ADD/ADHD.

He believes that today, ALL of us entrepreneurs, due to pressures and demands -- and diversions, go into phases of ADD/ADHD moments throughout our business day -- ALL OF US.

Ned believes entrepreneurs (like you) are gifted human beings, but also tormented human beings. Because you allow the paradoxical side of your talent and skills to pollute and take over your thinking and conduct. And he knows that THAT need not be the case for you.

But that needn't happen anymore for 12 of you, if you join Ned and me in Los Angeles on August 21-23.

Highly-driven, high-profit entrepreneurs often have “race car minds, but bicycle brakes.” This causes you to be indiscriminate in thinking, making decisions you shouldn't commit to. Going into actions too soon, to aggressive, causes you not to see yourself accurately, restricts your ability to grasp your business problems, potential situations, and the implications of your business and personal actions properly.

Ned and I want to help a dozen serious, high-achieving but highly distracted entrepreneurs achieve maximum balance and success in both their business and personal lives.

So we're collaborating together -- to conduct a bold, daring, experimental, 12-person-only experience in gaining and maintaining super focus, balance, business and life performance. We're calling it FIXING THE CHINKS IN YOUR ENTREPRENEURIAL ARMOR. It's unlike any program, seminar, or experience we've ever conducted.

The encounter is a "first-time-ever" collaboration between Ned Hallowell and me. It's strictly an experimental design -- only offered to outrageously driven, awesomely ambitious, fanatical goal-oriented entrepreneurs who sense the need to harness their drive, creativity, ambition and personal lives into something far more magnificent!

It's a hands-on, highly individualized process and program that helps each hand-selected participant gain control over their out-of-balance self and leave the event in absolute control.

The unimaginable outcome of experiencing this two-and-a-half day experimental program is... multiplied personal performance, magnified business performance, monumental balanced business and personal life, magnificent accomplishment, incredible control, loss of stress and anxiety, and so much more.

Now, the rub.

Due to my schedule, it has to be conducted on August 21-23. So this is very short notice. The people who need it, the entrepreneurs who "get it", the ones who perceive what we are offering, will change their schedules, make the time, and be there. The ones that won't, won't.

The cost is $5,000, and it's not designed for anyone wishing to continue this "self-imposed" life of freneticism, frustration, fatigue, etc.

This program is designed to liberate, emancipate, motivate in the most action-based way, and eliminate all the distractions, all the conflictions, all the constraints that are keeping you from achieving the greatest business and personal life imaginable.

If you are at a business crossroads in your life and know that you can't continue operating this way for the betterment of yourself, your life, your health, your business or your ambitions, you should probably contact Rob Colasanti at RobColasanti@abraham.com.

I apologize for the tightness of the date.

If you go here, you will see a self-diagnostic assessment, and see if it describes who, what, and where you're at in your business and personal life.

If it does -- and IF you contact Rob quickly enough -- you can be one of the dozen entrepreneurs we work with at this experimental program.

Also, at the link, you'll listen to a one-hour interview we've conducted with Ned that either describes your situation to a "T", or doesn't. Again, go here. There, you'll also see some video footage. Ned has been repeatedly featured on Dr. Oz, CBS, ABC, Dr. Phil, and a multitude of other programs. He has written many bestselling books you can easily find on Amazon.com.

I met him. I related to him. I am one of the people I am describing. I love his work. I love his perspective. I have never collaborated on a project this meaningful and important to me. As you can easily see by doing the math, this is not a big profit endeavor for me.

It is a first time, highly experimental "Beta" experiment he and I are doing together to refine and fortify our ability to collaborate to bring enormous and monumentally positive, transformative results in business performance and personal balance to entrepreneurs who really need it.

Because the time is brief, I am not going to try and hard-sell anyone. I only want 12 of you. It's going to be held at a very serene, waterside harbor outside of Los Angeles. The process is highly unusual in the most positive sense. It employs short, intensive, comprehensive, accelerated and compressed learning with extensive interaction.

Ned and I are doing it together, so it promises to be a wildly fun time, because both of us have ADHD -- so prepare for a wild and zany transformative experience unlike anything else you've ever done. If this speaks to you, contact Rob immediately, because 12 of you will be there and the other multiple thousands won't.
